Exam Reflection 2

Looking towards the final, the next study guide could be less exhaustive. I recognize that the goal of this class is to learn for the sake of learning, rather than to pass or simply do well. However, it has been typical of both exams for me to have spent time ensuring that I understand a concept that is not even mentioned on the actual test. I am not saying that the next study guide should be the entire outline of the exam, but considering that this next exam is accumulative, it would be nice to have a shorter list of things to worry about. At the very least, a shorter list gives us more time to know the provided concepts in more detail.

Additionally, as there have been many names included in both study guides, it would be better to know where they were mentioned. Once again, it does not have to be as specific as the date they were discussed in class or what chapter of the reading they appear in. It could simply be whether they were brought up in class or in reading. Myself and others have had difficulty tracking them down.

Lastly, like in OS and PPL prior, a practice or previous exam would be very useful. Obviously, we don't need practice questions for the older material, but we would benefit from having a better idea of what is expected for the newer material.
